

Heart Patient Is Dead

Artificial Heart Worked Up To Death

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Marcel DeRudder, died at 2:04 a.m. today of a possible rupture of his bronchia or trachea as a partial artificial heart device implanted in his chest almost six days ago continued to function.

The retired coal miner from Westville, Ill., who had suffered serious heart trouble for many years, had lived for six days in the quiet world of unconsciousness following the dramatic surgery last Thursday.

A Methodist Hospital spokesman said DeRudder's death was "sudden" and "unexplained."

He said death "was probably produced by a rupture of the bronchia or trachea," but that the exact cause of death could not be determined until completion of a post-mortem examination.

The left ventricular by-pass, which had been installed to give the coal miner's left ventricle a chance to heal before resuming its normal function, was functioning at the time of death, the spokesman said.

Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, head surgeon of a team which performed the operation, was in attendance when DeRudder died, the spokesman added.

Dr. DeBakey said Monday the artificial heart was "working fine, and the basic design has proved itself."

DeRudder had been at the Texas Medical Center for a week before the dramatic surgery and cardiologists felt "they couldn't help him any longer."

Dr. DeBakey said in an interview Monday that although biological complications had been noted "without the pump he would have died."

"His own heart still can't assume quite half the work load of a normal heart," Dr. DeBakey said.

Council May Make Move On New Time

The City Council, next Monday night, may make a decision on whether or not Sedalia will adopt Daylight Saving Time. An unofficial meeting of the Council with Mayor Ralph H. Walker was held Monday night at which time various subjects which may come before the council at its next regular meeting were discussed.

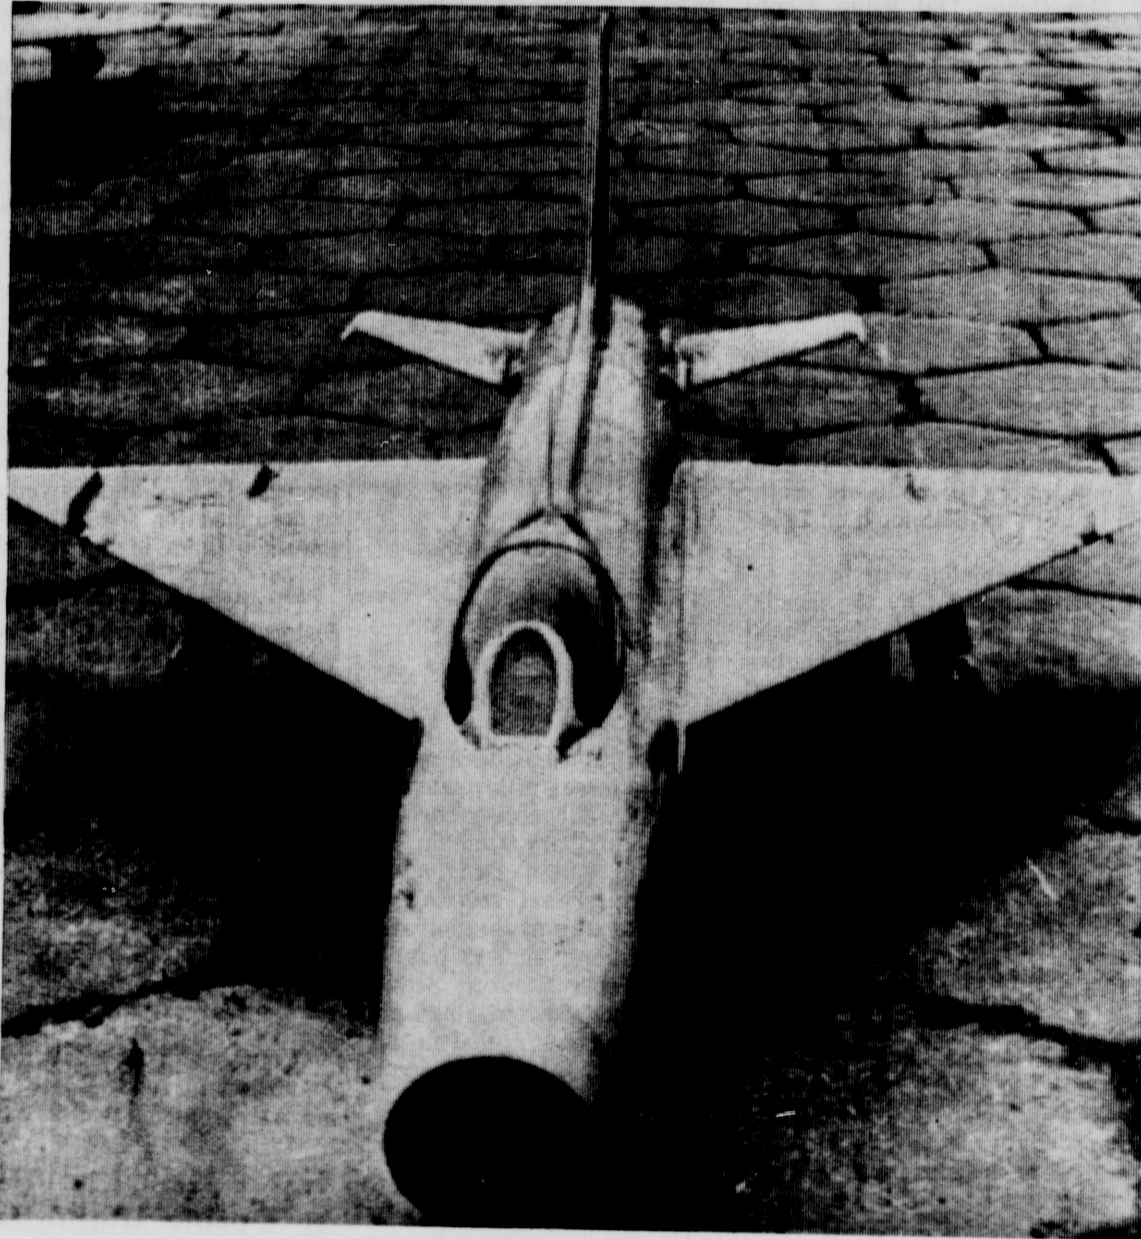

During the meeting a proponent favoring staying on Central Standard Time, M. R. McLain, manager of the Fox Theatre, presented the mayor with a petition opposing Daylight Saving Time with approximately 300 names. He agreed he expected some may have also signed the petition favoring the change in time, but he also said he could if the Council so desired get petitions with several thousand opposing the change in time. He explained the change would seriously affect the 50-Highway Drive-In Theatre, making it impossible to start a showing before 9:30 under the change, making it a hardship on many people who like to attend the open air theatre.

The Council was not entirely in agreement as to whether to vote for the change, but no vote was taken, and was open merely to discussion.

Mayor Walker asked City Counsellor Earl Crawford if the Council had the right to vote a change, and he said he was not positive but would check into the law. He will report back to the Council at a pre-caucus meeting next Monday night at what authority the Council would have.

Another important item discussed was a special election in the Fourth Ward to elect a city councilman to fill the vacancy created by the election of Mayor Walker who had to resign as a Council member from the Fourth Ward.

The election date discussed was tentatively set for June 7. The two parties, Democratic and Republican, to select the candidates to run.

SAIGON—A U.S. Air Force Phantom jet shot down a Russian-built MIG-21 fighter (similar to the one shown in 1965 file photo) in a dogfight over North Viet Nam, an Air Force spokesman said Tuesday. It was the second consecutive day of clashes between U.S. and Communist planes. The MIG, of unidentified nationality, was brought down with a heat-seeking Sidewinder missile. It was the first MIG-21 reported down in the Viet Nam war.

US Supersonic Jet Downs MIG Over North Viet Nam

Hit By Sidewinder In Brief Aerial Dogfight

SAIGON (AP) —An American supersonic jet fighter shot down an MIG21 today over North Viet Nam, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The MIG, newest and fastest type used by the Communists in Asia, was hit by Sidewinder missiles in a brief aerial duel 65 miles northeast of the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi, the spokesman said.

Sees State First In Recreation

Hearnes Addresses Governor's Meeting On Outdoor Affairs

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes predicted today Missouri can become the No. 1 state in the nation in outdoor recreation.

In a speech prepared for the second annual governor's conference on outdoor recreation, Hearnes said:

"Missouri is on the threshold of one of the greatest surges of improvement and expansion in the history of outdoor recreation.

"Our God-given natural resources, improved by man's intelligent planning, can make state No. 1 in the nation because it is a true varietyland—offering intriguing opportunities for Missourians and out-of-state visitors of all ages and interests."

The governor said he hoped to have a recommendation for the 1967 legislature for a state travel promotion agency, professionally staffed and adequately financed.

He also hinted a state department of natural resources might be created eventually to cover both fish, wildlife and forestry conservation, state parks and outdoor recreation and administration of the boating laws.

Recommendations also may be ready for the next legislature on preservation of Missouri's wild rivers, the governor said, and changes in the state boat commission law.

A comprehensive plan for outdoor recreation, as required by the federal government, is expected to be ready by next Jan. 15, the governor reported.

Hearnes cited current development of the Meramec River Basin in eastern Missouri as a unique project, involving 200,000 people in the basin itself and 2,300,000 people in the metropolitan St. Louis area.

State Baptists Name Director

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Baptist Convention has named the Rev. Webster C. Brown, 43, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in Columbia the last seven and a half years, as director of the convention's new church service division.

He formerly taught vocational agriculture at Holden, Mo.

It was downed by an F4C Phantom fighter in a dogfight in which two Phantoms attacked two MIG21s.

Neither of the U.S. planes was damaged, the spokesman said.

It was the first MIG21 kill of the Viet Nam war and the eighth Soviet-built fighter downed in the conflict. The previous seven were the older - version MIG17s.

The pilot of the destroyed MIG was believed to have ejected before his flaming plane crashed, the spokesman said.

The Sidewinder missile used against the MIG is a heat-seeking projectile which seeks out and climbs into the hot tail-pipe of enemy aircraft.

The spokesman did not disclose how many Sidewinders were fired. He said further details of the encounter would be available Wednesday.

Two of the delta-winged Communist fighters and two Phantoms duelled undamaged to a standoff north of Hanoi Monday. American planes and the Soviet-built MIGs had clashed three times Saturday.

As against the eight MIGs shot down so far, three U.S. jets have been lost in air-to-air combat. MIGs downed two U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs April 4, 1965, 80 miles south of Hanoi. A Phantom failed to return after tangling with MIG fighters in the area of Red China's Hainan Island April 9.

In the fight Monday, two Air Force Phantoms got off 11 or 12 Sidewinder and Sparrow air-to-air missiles at their delta-winged foe but none hit the mark, the U.S. spokesman said. The MIGs also took some shots.

Damaging Twisters Reported

Storms Threaten To Make Flooding Conditions Worse

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP) — Violent thunderstorms swept across drenched northeast Texas Monday, threatening to make flooding conditions more serious and adding to damages that already reach into the millions.

Tornadoes struck in south Texas and winds up to 75 miles per hour lashed the Corpus Christi area. At least five damaging twisters were reported in Texas Monday.

A packing plant was damaged and trees uprooted at Marshall and a second tornado in the Marshall area knocked down power lines and swept away the roof of a press box at a baseball park.

Another twister dipped to the ground north of Lake Quitman in the Mineola area. It caused heavy damage on the Keysey Ross farm.

Earlier, tornadoes struck the town of Kenedy and Runge in south Texas, leaving about 250 persons homeless and causing extensive damage to business buildings.

Red Cross officials said floodwaters had entered 50 homes in Longview and that about 50 families would probably be evacuated from the Roosevelt area of Dallas.

Tom Miller For Circuit Court Clerk

Thomas J. Miller, 1002 East 11th, life-long resident of Sedalia, Tuesday filed on the Republican ticket for office of Circuit clerk, county clerk James H. Green reported.

Miller will oppose W. R. "Bill" Lyles, Democrat, who filed earlier, in the August primary election.

Miller was born and raised in Sedalia, graduating from Smith-Cotton High School in 1950. He enlisted in the Navy shortly after graduation and served four years. He is presently a Missouri Automobile Club representative, serving in that capacity for three and a half years.

He is known throughout the county for his work with the Junior Chamber of Commerce, serving as treasurer for that organization. He is a licensed auctioneer and obtained training from an auctioneer's school in Mason City, Iowa.

Besides the Jaycees, he is a member of First Methodist Church, Methodist Men's organization of that church, member of American Legion, Post 16, Masonic Lodge, A. F. & A. M., No. 272 and Eastern Star No. 57.

Miller is married and has one daughter, Venise, age two and one half years.

Union Must 'Lower Its Demands'

NEW YORK —(AP)— Gene Robb, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, says that if unions don't lower their demands New York City will lose three newspapers instead of one.

This loss, he said Monday, would mean elimination of 5,000 jobs, instead of 2,000.

Robb, publisher of the Albany (N.Y.) Times-Union and Knickerbocker News, made the statement in a speech at the ANPA's 80th annual meeting.

The meeting coincided with the second day of a strike by the Newspaper Guild of New York which has kept the newly merged World Journal Tribune Inc. from publication. The nine other unions in the newspaper industry support the Guild strike.

Robb said the unions are demanding that the new corporation "keep people they do not need, keep on losing millions and pay millions more than their union contracts call for."

Bill To Increase State Aid To Public Schools Passes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A bill to increase state aid to public schools by $9,981,000 a year was passed unanimously by the Senate today.

The vote sending it back to the House was 28-0.

Earlier the House approved a change in the school foundation formula which would have increased state aid by an estimated $11.2 million a year.

The Senate cut out a provision that would have permitted school districts to base their average daily attendance on estimates for the following year, instead of existing enrollment.

But the Senate version retained a requirement that 80 per cent of the state aid go for teachers' salaries—a provision that Sen. John E. Downs, D-St. Joseph, said would amount to a 4.5 per cent pay increase for Missouri teachers.

A proposed constitutional amendment affecting school tax rates also was passed by the Senate and sent to the House, 20-9.

It was intended originally to keep a school levy from dropping back to the basic tax rate of $1.25 per $100 assessed valuation if the voters defeated a proposed levy increase.

As passed, it also includes a complex plan that could result in a lower tax if a levy increase were defeated. If valuations had increased, the levy would revert to a rate that would produce the same amount of total income as the previous tax rate.

A bill intended originally to give prosecutors a stronger weapon against the fencing of stolen goods was defeated, 17-13, one vote short of the 18 required.

Opponents attacked it as unconstitutional. They said it would be foreign to the American tradition that a man is innocent until proven guilty. They charged it would result in the conviction of many honest people who didn't know the property they had bought had been stolen.

The bill had been pushed primarily by Kansas City law enforcement officers who said the fencing of stolen goods was a

Henry Keeler Files Today As Candidate

Henry A. Keeler

A former President of the Pettis County Bar Association, Henry A. Keeler, filed as a candidate on the Republican ticket for Prosecuting Attorney of Pettis County.

Keeler, a practicing attorney in Sedalia, has the following background:

He attended public schools in Great Neck, Long Island and Columbia University, Rutgers University, Pace College, Shrinham University in England and the University of Kansas City. He holds an A.B. and L.L.B. from Kansas City and has completed all course work and a portion of the thesis for the L.L.M. During World War II he received a direct commission in the field in Europe. He served with Military Government and the Counter Intelligence Corps after the war, and also served with the Central Intelligence Agency.

Keeler spent three years in Wall Street in International Inc.

Long In Hospital Monday for Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., entered Walter Reed Army medical center here today for tests. He's scheduled to undergo minor surgery Thursday.

The senator said the surgery will be to correct a malfunctioning small gland in his neck and to remove his tonsils.

He is expected to rest two weeks before resuming his duties.

Liquor Control Boss Expected To File

ST. LOUIS (AP) — State Liquor Control Supervisor Glenon T. Moran was expected to file today for the Democratic nomination for St. Louis County prosecuting attorney.

Moran announced Monday his intentions of filing. He said he would resign his state position when he begins campaigning.

Moran, 40, unsuccessfully sought the Democratic nomination for U.S. Representative from the Second District in 1962.

Secretary Is Swamped With Filings

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Weary, overworked employees in Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick's office were swamped with new candidate filings on this last day for getting into the political races.

Filing deadline is 5 p.m. Central Daylight Time today.

In the only statewide race Auditor Haskell Holman had one primary opponent, perennial candidate Lewis E. Morris of Jefferson City.

Two men were seeking the Republican nomination for auditor, Rep. William Zimmerman of Warrenton and William Jones, a Jefferson City nursing home operator.

All the congressional incumbents filed early and at mid-morning today only two, Reps. W. R. Hull (D) of Weston and Richard Bolling (D) Kansas City, were still without primary or general election opposition.

In the state senate there were four who faced neither primary or general election contests. All Democrats, they included Sens. John W. Joynt and T. D. McNeal, both of St. Louis, Earl Blackwell of Hillsboro and John E. Downs of St. Joseph.

But it was the filing for the reapportioned House that kept the clerks busy.

By mid-morning the number of candidates for the 163 House seats had surged well beyond the 400 mark.

Delinquent Tax Collections Up

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Delinquent tax collections for the first quarter of this year have reached a new high of $299,500.

Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson reported today that was an increase of $85,270 over last year.

March collections totaled $129,633, a gain of about 60 per cent over March of last year.

Increased collections were reported in delinquent sales, income, withholding, corporation franchise, guardian and inheritance taxes.

Program Presented Rotarians

"Indian Illustrated" was the subject of the Rotary program given Monday noon at Bothwell Hotel by Captain Roy Miller, Wentworth Academy, Lexington. Captain Miller was introduced by Rev. H. U. Campbell, chaplain of the academy, former Sedalia, who was presented by Jake Summers, program chairman.

The program consisted of a talk on Indian lore by Captain Miller which he said is a hobby of some of the boys at the academy. Three of the boys then entertained the club with some Indian dances of the Sioux and Chippewa tribes. There are 21 members in the hobby club, Captain Miller stated.

Boys participating in the dances were Bob Stegner, George Jensen and Bob Herring. The dances were: Eagle Dance, Dance of the 15th Century; Dance of Cherokee Tribe; Hoop Dance of the Sioux Tribe; Snake Dance of the Sioux Tribe, War Dance and Circle Dance.

The meeting was presided over by Lou Tempel, Jr., vice-president, and invocation was by Rev. Jess Wallace. Hardy Cobb led the group singing with Mrs. Lillian Maynard at the piano.

The following guests were introduced by Firman Boul: Rotarian Harold Stone, Brainerd, Minn.; O. L. Brown, guest of Jerry Harlan; Jim Johnston, guest of John Brown; and student guests, Jack Herndon, Richard Swords, Jon Dickey and Mike Hunt.

Tempel announced the district conference to be held in Independence May 12 and 13.

said several hours before Dr. Rudder's death.

Methodist Hospital's final advisory Monday reported DeRudder continued to show slight improvement from a kidney malfunction, although he "has developed some lung congestion which is being treated by methods usually employed for conditions of this type."

DeRudder exceeded Monday the life span of a patient who underwent a similar operation in 1963.

Dr. DeBaKey also performed that operation, in which a silicone rubber device instead of the plastic type pump was used. The patient, 43, lived four days. Death resulted from a hopeless condition of the brain, kidneys, liver and lungs.

Another operation was performed last Feb. 4 in which Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz of Maimonides Hospital, Brooklyn, N.Y. installed an air-operated artificial heart in a 34-year-old man. He died 24 hours later of complications not connected with the surgery.

Bixby was issued a police summons for failure to yield the right of way and is to appear in police court.

Two vehicles, both headed south, were in collision at 14th and Limit about 11:47 p.m. Monday. There were no apparent injuries, police said.

Involved were a 1963 Ford van driven by Donald F. Richardson, 38, 610 West Broadway, and a 1957 Oldsmobile driven by Robert W. Dodd, 19, 700 North Grand.

The left front of the Ford and the right rear side of the Oldsmobile were damaged.

principal support for organized crime.

The House became embroiled in argument over three Senate-passed highway beautification bills and passed the least controversial one — to allow the State Highway Department to improve scenic areas along Missouri highways.

But it had to shelve one to push junkyards back further from interstate and primary system highways. Several members wanted to prepare more amendments.

Then the real shooting match started on the billboard regulatory bill.

The key to the argument was the strip zoning amendment put on by the House Roads and Highway Committee. It would allow zoning of billboards in rural areas and the Senate sponsor told the committee the amendment made the bill just a piece of garbage.

Sponsors of the original version said that would nullify Missouri's chances to get $10 million in federal highway aid.

Salvation Army Head Is Leaving

Captain Marjorie Weber, commanding officer of the Salvation Army, is leaving Sedalia and for a time has been assigned to Jefferson City, which is temporary. Succeeding her here will be Auxiliary Captain and Mrs. John Potter, Decatur, Ill.

A public farewell meeting will be held Sunday at the Salvation Army building at 2:30 p.m. Capt. Weber came to Sedalia in January 1958 and since that time has become a distinct part of Sedalia. She has participated in civic activities, and at the present time is on the staff of Civil Defense and the board of trustees of the Pettis County Community Action Corporation for Economic Opportunity, Inc. She is a member of the Ministerial Alliance and of the Business and Professional Women's Club serving as the president of the latter organization during the year 1964-65.

The year she came to Sedalia she organized the Golden Agers.

This was not a group of members of the Salvation Army, it was for all who cared to join. It featured a noon dinner once a week and an all day meeting with everyone doing exactly what they wanted to do. With the remodeling of the building the Golden Agers had a room where they could come at any time they cared to and use the kitchen facilities for the meeting day or special occasions. Between 30 and 40 have been attending each week. She has seen to it that those who desired went to a summer camp.

Her youth group, with devotion and recreation, has grown to 38 young people and a play room with games for recreation was provided. The Sunday School has grown to more than a hundred and all other activities have grown since her coming here. She even inspired one girl to become a Salvation Army cadet to follow in her footsteps.

But Captain Weber has done more than that. She has succeeded getting civic groups interested in the Salvation Army program to such an extent that they will stand in the freezing weather and ring bells for the Salvation Army familiar kettle at Christmas time and this year exceeded all other years with the amount for Christmas dinner. Civic clubs have competed to see which could bring in the most money and win the plaque. Captain Weber, who grew up in St. Louis where her family still resides, stated she hated to leave Sedalia because it had become home to her. Having started her career 17 years ago she had been in 28 places, but she has been able to stay here since 1958.

She had the honor of being selected as "Outstanding Young Woman of the Year" two years ago, which was sponsored by the Jaycee Wives.

A $4.4 million catchall appropriation bill, the last money bill of the session.

A House-Senate conference committee already is at work on the other major bills in the $1 million-plus budget.

Sent to the Senate was a measure to provide state aid for part time students in public schools. Only full time students are counted now for state aid purposes.

Historical Society Pleased With Open House Results

A satisfying response of visitors came to the open house of the Pettis County Historical Society at the Pettis County Court House Sunday afternoon which was attended by President James T. Denny and other officers of the society.

Visitors came from Sedalia, Pettis and adjoining counties and from Seattle, Wash., and Philadelphia, Penn. They spent the afternoon examining numerous attractive showcases containing thousands of relics and mementoes of historical significance locally and nationally.

All the articles have been properly labeled and conveniently arranged for spectators who may see them in the corridors of the Court House.

Officers and members of the Historical Society, Mrs. Theodore Wells, leader, her Girl Scouts, who have been of invaluable assistance preparing for this open house, were present to guide the visitors and explain the display items.

During a portion of the afternoon a period was allotted for a reunion of teachers and pupils of old McVey school house, a landmark east of Sedalia. This was held in the Assembly Room with President Denny presiding.

Tribute was paid to Jean Curry, deceased, and Mrs. Curry for their contributions in building the school.

WCS Meet Planned At Wesley Methodist

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Sedalia District will hold the spring meeting at the Wesley Methodist Church in Sedalia on Friday, April 29.

Registration will start at 9:30 a.m.

The theme of the meeting will be "One Witness in One World."

The conference president, Mrs. Norton Brown, Joplin, will be the speaker at the afternoon session and will talk on the subject: "Called Under God."

Take sack lunch. Nursery will be provided.

Savings Bond Sales Up During March

A general increase in the sale of U. S. Savings Bonds during March was noted throughout the country. Here in Pettis County, sales amounted to $86,618, according to J. J. McGrath, chairman of the county Savings Bonds Committee. Total sold here for the first three months of 1966 amounted to $192,779, the chairman said.

ing the Historical Society to its significant position.

Present to make short talks about their experiences at McVey were the following:

Mrs. Columbia Jane Cook, now Mrs. Ray Cole, of Pilot Grove, Pettis County Music supervisor who taught three terms at McVey. She played two of the numbers on the piano.

Mrs. Sophia Mothersbaugh Crosslin, 1528 East Sixth street, who taught during 1928-30.

Mrs. Daisy Dillow Parker, 2106 East Seventh St., 1918-19.

Mrs. Jewell Miller McGee, 2514 Lister, Kansas City, 1938-42.

Mrs. John Witcher, Route 2, Sedalia, 1944-46 and 1947-54.

Mrs. Foster Scotten, 1629 West 18th St., 1942-44.

Mrs. George West, 301 East Fourth St., 1954-56, who was the last teacher at McVey school. From 1956-64 the school was closed and pupils were transported to other schools. December 22, 1964, the school became part of Sedalia School District No. 200 by process of annexation.

Also attending the reunion were former pupils: Mrs. Nora Ward, 1896; Mrs. Tom Whaley, 405 South Massachusetts and Miss Mary Johnson, 1401 West 11th street, 1898.

President Denny called attention to an unusual circumstance. Present was one of the founders of the Society, who is still an active member, Don S. Lamm. He lives in the same house in which he was born, 1303 South Osage avenue.

Introduced were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Dyke, prominent Pettis countians, whose son, LeRoy, is a nationally known musician, who is given recognition in the historical displays. Several of his recordings were played.

Also shown at the reunion was an oil painting of McVey, the little red school house, made by Miss Marian Keens, teacher in Heber Hunt school.

Ann Landers

Answers
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Why should the color of a woman's hair be so important to a husband that he would walk out of the house and not talk to her for two days?

I am 43 and look it. My husband is a youthful 44. My hair-dresser suggested that I lighten my hair a few shades — just enough to tone the gray down and give appearance of being blonde. I don't mean a brassy blonde—I mean a nice, soft, honey color.

I was thrilled when I left the beauty shop. Everyone in the place raved. I felt 15 years younger. When my teen-agers came home they told me right off they didn't like it. Teen-agers never like the way their mother looks so I discounted their remarks. But when my husband saw me he went through the roof. He said I looked like a streetwalker and added a few other comments.

I like my hair this way but I'm wondering if it's worth all this fighting. My husband insists he'll never get used to it and that I should switch back to natural. What would YOU do, Ann Landers? — MINORITY OP ONE.

Dear Min: I'd rather switch than fight.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will publish this letter for the benefit of the 15-year-old girl who was caught sneaking her mother's car. She asked you to intervene in her behalf and you refused.

We, too, had a 15-year-old daughter who couldn't wait until she was given permission to drive. She had had some classroom instruction and it was only a matter of weeks before she would have been granted the permission that she so eagerly desired. But she just couldn't wait. She borrowed a car from a girl friend and nobody knows for sure exactly what happened. When the police called us they could only say our darling daughter had smashed into a concrete bridge, the car had turned over in a ditch, and she was drowned in less than three feet of water.

What a horrible price our little girl paid for her mistake. The teen-ager who wrote to you should take her punishment and thank God she got off so lucky. —MRS. M.J.

Dear Mrs. M.J.: Thanks for a letter which I'm sure was extremely difficult to write. But it was worth the effort, mother, take my word for it. Millions of teen-agers read this column and (hopefully) learn from it. You gave every high school student who ever "borrowed" his parents' car something to think about.

Dear Ann Landers: Due to illness I am just now getting around to acknowledging the cards we received at Christmas time. I have a whole stack of cards I can't acknowledge because I don't know who sent them.

The signatures read, "Jim and Alice," "Betty and Bill," and "Lois and Dick." We know several couples who have these names. The envelopes have been thrown away so there is no city to clue me.

This may not be a timely letter but it would surely be a national service if you'd remind people to put their last names on their Christmas cards and not assume that they are the only Ron and Beth in the whole world.—TIREDD.

Dear Tired: A good letter is ALWAYS timely. Thanks for writing.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Middle Age No Destination But Only Part of Journey

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you wonder whether you are middle-aged?

Well, middle age is like success or life itself. It isn't a destination — just part of the journey.

Nobody is born middle-aged; it is thrust upon us by time. If you keep your nose clean, wash behind your ears, and look both ways before crossing the street, sooner or later you will achieve middle age. It is one of the pallid laurels of successful living.

Some people, on reaching middle age, try to hide it, as though it were a shameful disease. Actually, of course, it isn't really a malady, although it can be catching.

In any case, it is foolish to try to camouflage the condition of middle age.

Undoubtedly, you are middle-aged if:

Brownie Scout 'Fly-About' Event Planned

Brownie Scouts of Sedalia will have an opportunity to spend the day together learning about Camp Sakajawea and acquire knowledge of camping skills. April 30 is the day selected for the Brownie Fly-About which is sponsored by Senior Girl Scout Troop 375 of Sedalia and their adviser Mrs. Theodore Wells. The Senior Scouts will be assisted by ninth grade Cadettes who will be Senior Scouts next year.

Each Brownie troop will provide their own transportation to and from camp and each girl will bring a sack lunch (nose bag). The Senior troop will furnish the drink. Last year was the first Fly-About and the Brownies were very impressed by the Senior Scouts and their many skills and all enjoyed the day. Approximately 250 Brownie Scouts are expected to participate this year. One adult for each 16 Brownies will be attending the event in an observer capacity.

Senior Scout Troop 375 has been very active this year—their own troop meetings, Cadette Primitive Encampment, Senior weekend at Kemper, hosting at the Open House of the Historical Society at the Court-house, getting the cases ready for the open house, Senior Planning board and now the Brownie Fly-About.

In a year you gulp more aspirin tablets than you do candy mints.

You suspect that anyone who chews gum in public is mentally deficient.

There is no doubt in your mind that the average teen-ager carries a switchblade knife and is a potential dope addict.

You dimly remember that the Lambeth Walk was a dance, but you shrug when anyone mentions the Frug. It isn't part of your vocabulary, and you don't want it to be.

Sitting on the bus going home you get angry because some younger fellow doesn't get up and give his seat to an old lady. You'd do it yourself — if your feet didn't hurt you.

It annoys you if your wife buys a new piece of furniture. You'd rather have the old one reupholstered.

If you get a martini at lunch that isn't up to your standard, your secretary suffers for it the rest of the afternoon.

You hate to admit you're growing older, but you are miffed if your friends don't send you a card on your birthday.

What you don't give to the doctor, the dentist gets.

Trifles break down your morale. If you get a shirt back from the laundry with a button missing, that's just one more sign that the whole world's against you.

All the foods you like are bad for you, and all the foods you hate are good for you.

You are more comfortable in the company of a man whose prejudices you know than one whose cleverness you don't quite grasp.

After putting on one sock in the morning, you pause and sigh and take a deep breath before putting on the other sock.

Whatever anything costs, it isn't worth it — and doesn't last as long as it used to.

You take life as it comes, realizing that no new mouth lotion is likely to improve your social position and no handruff cure will win you promotion at the office.

Salazar Is 77; Oldest Dictator

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The world's most durable dictator, Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, reaches 77 Thursday, having spent almost half his life ruling Portugal.

Though the nation and its scattered territories are preparing elaborate festivities for the anniversary of his regime, Premier Salazar, a shy former economics professor who detests pomp and ceremony, intends to stand in the wings.

The white-haired premier has led an orderly, almost monastic life since he took over the reins and guided this country of 10 million out of political and economic chaos.

Salazar, a bachelor, lives in Estrela Palace, a comfortable yellow residence nestled in a flower garden where fountains play in the sun.

Despite his age, Salazar puts in a full eight-hour day working alone in the mornings at his National Assembly office across the way from Estrela and conferring with ministers and close advisers in the afternoon.

He speaks with pride of Portugal's achievements since the 1926 revolution when a clique of army generals took power. They urged Salazar to quit his post as professor of economics at the University of Coimbra and straighten out Portugal's snarled finances. He actually did not hold an official title until he took over as finance minister April 27, 1928.

Salazar did so well that he was boosted to the premiership in 1932. From the day he took office, he held Portugal in an iron grip, smothering all opposition and keeping the people in line.

Under his stern rule Portugal's public revenues have risen twelvefold to more than $600 million. Illiteracy is the school population has dropped from 70 per cent to almost zero. Living standards have tripled, industrial production is rising at the rate of 11.7 per cent a year, and the number of university students has increased nearly sixfold.

"We have worked hard, and we might well say we have worked alone, at a time when much is said about subsidies and technical aid and everything seems to depend on them," Salazar says.

But Salazar's regime is beginning to feel the pinch of its three-front war in Africa, against rebels in the territories of Angola, Mozambique and Portuguese Guinea. This running conflict is eating up 4.2 per cent of the national budget.

On the economic front, women and children have had to go to work in Portugal to replace more than 100,000 emigrants who quit the country each year in search of better wages.

Another source of dissatisfaction has been the lack of support NATO allies give to Portugal's African policies. The United States' position has been resented particularly.

Portugal has been building up defense agreements with West Germany, France and Spain outside of what Salazar calls the "inadequate" Atlantic Alliance. This raises the possibility of Portugal's terminating the WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson wants "more effective political consultation within the NATO community."

Jackson, a Washington Democrat and chairman of a Senate National Security subcommittee, says consultation is a key requirement for strengthening the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Jackson, interviewed on the NBC television-radio program "Meet the Press," suggested several other things to strengthen NATO. This included streamlining the organization's staff, particularly the military staff; greater involvement on the part of U.S. allies in military planning, improved communications, both civilian and military, and more meetings among the heads of state.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington National Airport has joined the jet age.

The first of the regularly scheduled jet operations was the takeoff Sunday of American Airlines Flight 389 to Chicago.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare John W. Gardner says it is harder to pin down North-northern compliance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964 because of difficulty determining whether segregation is the result of official action toward that end.

Gardner said on the CBS television show "Face the Nation" that new methods must be found if de facto segregation in Northern schools is to be eliminated.

More Than Bugs Like to Look

They're gorgeous! Tulips on the Pettis County Court house lawn.

From now on the yard in its Spring transition will develop an increasingly beautiful appearance. Competitively, in this respect, is the surprise results of the sandblast on the exterior of the court house building. It looks as clean as new on the east side now as the years of discoloring gray disappear.

Don't be so aesthetical, we can hear some sour-puss exclaim — the character who looks through dirty windows or where haphazard and unattractive displays are exposed as the trade walks by.

That would be, of course, the comment of some visitors from another town.

But there is some merit in calling attention to what can happen to a shopping district downtown or elsewhere when windows and their displays are neglected or not renewed often.

Beautiful is not a strong enough word to describe some of the outstanding window displays of Sedalia stores today. They are distinct attention-compellers as well as magnets to attract shoppers inside. We know of some shoppers who have driven around the block to find a parking space in order to take a second look on foot at a beautiful window display.

Something should be said for proper lighting of store windows, too, and for a longer period of time at night. The time clocks should stand a little more nudging past the usual turn off time. Maybe more people would drive around the shopping areas after a late hamburger just to look in the windows at night and likely be attracted as a buyer later.

Good promotion of Sedalia as a shopping center is not a four-time annual ballyhoo, spring, summer, autumn and winter. Promotion must be a continuing project not only by advertising merchandise, but also displaying it.

In this respect, a little susceptibility to aesthetic influences will improve the morale of both merchants and shopper.

Adequate lighting of well-arranged window displays attracts more than bugs at night — it invites the return of shoppers during daylight. GHS

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The following citizens were selected by Sheriff C. R. Bothwell to serve on the Pettis County Grand jury which will receive instructions from Judge Dimmitt Hoffman: Herman Bloss, Sedalia lumber dealer; John Blum, Smithton dairyman; Hugh Courtney, Sedalia retired shoe merchant; Harold Dean, Sedalia contractor; H. Clay Jones, Pettis county farmer; W. L. Jackson, Smithton lumber dealer; E. R. Keller, LaMonte grocer; J. O. Latimer, Pettis county farmer; Bert Means, LaMonte; John Purchase, Green Ridge farmer; D. R. Powell, Hughesville farmer; C. E. Ramsey, Houstonia tinner and plumber.

FORTY YEARS AGO

James E. Norlin, with an average of 185 for 18 games led the bowlers in the recent city tournament held on the Smoke House alleys. O. B. Poundstone was next with an average of 177 for 24 games and Tom Quinn ranked third with 175 for 30 games.

Beg To Differ

First there is De Gaulle, and then there are the French.

Polls conducted by the "Institute Francais d'Opinion Publique," as reported by Freedom & Union magazine, indicate the attitudes of Frenchmen toward America and Americans have not been altered fundamentally by the example of President De Gaulle.

A recent poll asked: "In case of war, do you believe that America would intervene to defend Europe?" De Gaulle says "no," but 69 per cent of the Frenchmen interviewed said "yes." Only 8 per cent said "no" and 23 per cent had no reply.

To the question of what comes immediately to mind when the United States is mentioned, replies varied from, "I think of their economic and industrial power" to, "A very rich country, from what I hear, but also a very egotistical one."

LEXINGTON (Ky.) LEADER: Bailey Has 'Gone Home.' — A couple of months ago, The Leader asked editorially what had become of Bill Bailey, the hero of a jazz song of some years ago by Hughie Cannon entitled "Bill Bailey Won't You Please Come Home."

Bill Bailey, we have just learned via an article in the Mayfield Messenger, has finally "gone home." He died March 10 in Singapore at the age of 80.

He was an Iowa-born fellow who had a varied career as actor, salesman, circus hand, rancher, gold miner and street cleaner, and who finally ended up in Singapore as operator of the Coconut Grove night club.

He left the United States in 1929, stayed for a time in Australia, then moved to Singapore and opened his club. The war years were tough ones for him, since the Coconut Grove was bombed during the Japanese invasion and Bailey was put in a concentration camp, but after Japan was defeated the club reopened, and Bill Bailey was still operating it when he died.

Whether or not the song was written about him, he accepted the legend that it was, and it was good for business. And when he was asked why he didn't come home, his stock reply was, "I like it here." Which is a very good reason.

the street: "A young and fresh people with a great future" — "Tremendously organized economic power" — "An exuberant race" — "Skyscrapers and the Statue of Liberty."

Freedom & Union quotes a Paris preacher as saying, "We imitate Americans so much that if our subconscious really doesn't like them, we are the greatest race of hypocrites on earth."

Apparently, to paraphrase an old Gallic saying, the more De Gaulle tries to change the French, the more they remain the same.

Mao's Dingdong Schools Make Cynics

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — When young Tung Chi-ching was going to college in Shanghai, Communist China, in the early 1960s, he says there was only one Communist true believer in his class of 20.

The other 19 were skeptics, opponents or opportunists.

Tung, a young Peking Foreign Service officer, escaped in 1964 and sought U. S. asylum.

We talked together at the office of a man we both knew.

Tung says he didn't have time to study much in school. "So we didn't learn much." The Communists were always putting on campaigns for this and that. Tung and his fellows were required to volunteer their services.

Nine weeks out of each school year were spent in the fields doing manual labor out in the countryside. They planted, harvested, built dikes, carried night soil.

They no longer studied Marxism in Red China's schools by the time Tung reached college. It was all Maoism, the teachings of Mao Tse-tung.

They went over these teachings and over them and over them until Tung and his fellow students were sick to death of it. It was the same thing over and over again with nothing new.

The political cadres the party used to lead the campaigns and do the political teaching were usually men or women with little education. The college types looked down on them.

Tung was required to attend political meetings, sometimes every day. In easier periods it was several times a week. There were weeks in which the required political meetings filled all his time. Sometimes they went on most of the day and lasted until midnight. Sometimes they lasted all day and all night.

The self-criticism meetings were the worst. Especially bad were those sessions called to condemn and convict some fellow student. "They didn't leave the man any dignity."

The era of the back yard steel furnaces—when everyone young and old was supposed to make steel for the nation—brought Tung's first great disillusionment.

"Our class made 25 tons of steel when I was in high school," he said. "We were all worked up. But the people never bothered even to take it away."

In many places in China during the late 1950s and the early 1960s, Tung knew people didn't have enough food. He knew that many died. But this was never mentioned publicly. The officials were announcing great crops. "We knew they were lying."

Then they tried to hide the failure of the communes, said Tung. But everyone knew that the communes had failed.

Tung said he and his fellows heard about the Hungarian revolt against the Russians. Students hung around the radio cheering the Hungarians on. When the revolt was put down and nothing happened, they lost some of their own hopes.

At the time of Cuba, Tung said, "we enjoyed the U.S.S.R. suffering humiliation from the United States."

Tung knew how the other students felt because they talked together. "We knew whom to trust because we lived together—most of us—for three or four years in school."

Morse, LBJ Friends Despite Disputes

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — If criticism stimulates, Sen. Wayne Morse must keep the President bubbling. The Oregon Democrat can't stand Lyndon B. Johnson's Viet Nam policy. Johnson seems to be doing Morse good, too.

The senator tells about a recent conversation with the President.

Johnson: "Wayne, I've never seen you look so healthy. What's your secret?"

Morse: "Mr. President, you're the secret. Your foreign policy so agitates my adrenal glands that they wash out my blood stream two or three times a day. There's nothing better than that for your health."

Morse has said tougher things to and about Johnson but they get along. And politician Johnson never lets the criticism get in the way of his using Morse when he thinks Morse can help him.

Morse was rough on President John F. Kennedy, too, probably never rougher than in the 1960 presidential primaries when he called Kennedy a "phraseological liberal who doesn't vote the way he talks" and suggested his voting record was so nonliberal he should have been in the opposition party.

Kennedy, like Johnson, rolled with the punches, and was even good-natured about them. In his book about Kennedy's presidency, "A Thousand Days," Arthur Schlesinger Jr., describes Kennedy's reaction in the primary days:

"Half the time Wayne claps me on the shoulder and congratulates me; the other half he denounces me as a traitor to liberalism and an enemy of the working class."

Knowing Morse's long experience in labor disputes, Kennedy in 1963 named him chairman of a board which settled a month-long longshoremen's strike.

Relations between Morse and President Dwight D. Eisenhower were practically nonexistent. Morse not only turned against the general in the 1952 campaign but dropped out of the Republican party, later became a Democrat, severely criticized Eisenhower, and even suggested he quit the presidency for lack of energy to carry on the job.

It is customary, every other year, for the President to name two senators — selection is by seniority — from the Foreign Relations Committee as members of the American delegation to the United Nations. In 1960 Morse was one of the two named by Eisenhower. There was nothing personal about it.

If Eisenhower hadn't done it, he would have had Morse on his back for months publicly asking why.

The Associated Press files show Morse went after Johnson early. In 1953, while still calling himself an independent, Morse visited Texas and, the AP reported, held interviews in which he said Johnson represented nobody but himself in the Senate and that if Johnson "should ever have a liberal idea he would have a brain hemorrhage."

This didn't mar the relationship. On and off Morse criticized and defended Johnson. If Johnson had a constitutional question which bothered him, he consulted Morse, who had been a law school dean.

In 1964 Johnson called on Morse to help settle a longshoremen's dispute, in 1965 to help avert a steel strike, in 1965 to seek ideas to use when he addressed the United Nations.

Nevertheless, Morse bangs away and only recently said Johnson had "out-Goldwatered" Barry Goldwater on Viet Nam. And last week Johnson called on Morse to help avert an airline strike.

Police Catch Fishers

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP) — Five boys went fishing recently through the roof skylight at the Atlantic Thrift Center.

They managed to hook one children's game before police caught them.

If all this seems simple, natural and par for the course in politics, it nevertheless raises a question:

Why isn't there the same kind of relationship between Johnson and Sen. J.W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee and also a constant critic of the President's foreign policy?

The Johnson-Fulbright relationship seems frigid.

West Sees Only Partner's Error

A letter from Toronto reads: "I sat East. The first trick was won by dummy's king of spades. South went to his own hand with a heart and led the eight of clubs around to my jack. I returned a spade whereupon South made two spades, two hearts, four clubs, one diamond, game and rubber. My partner told me that I should have ducked the first club and set the hand. Should I have ducked and would that play have defeated South?"

The answer to our reader's first question is "Yes." The answer to his second question is "Probably, but not certainly."

Declarer could still make the hand had he known the location of all the cards. After the eight of clubs he could cash one big club and duck a diamond around to West. West's best play would be to lead another spade which South would duck. South would take the next spade, cash his ace of diamonds and remaining high heart, and throw East in with a heart. East would win tricks with his queen and ten of hearts but would then have to lead away from his jack of clubs to give dummy the last two tricks.

West's criticism of his partner is typical of a lot of bridge players. West was quick to note his partner's error but West failed entirely to note that he, West, could have set the hand by simply covering the eight of clubs with his queen. Furthermore, he would risk nothing at all by that queen play. It should have been obvious to West that if South held the jack of clubs, West's queen was useless but if East held the jack, West's queen should be played immediately.

Actually the queen play might have produced real dividends. South might have let it hold and taken a finesse against the jack later to go down several tricks.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Teeth Vital Identity When Disaster Strikes

By William Lawrence D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Tragedy on tragedy was piled up recently in Japan when a series of plane crashes took the lives of over 300 people. Pictures and accounts of wreckage strewn over wide areas were appalling. Disaster teams investigating the crashes had a monumental task trying to make some sense out of chaos.

Part of a disaster team's work has to do with identification and teeth often furnish the only clues after massive disasters such as plane crashes, fires, explosions, train wrecks and earthquakes. Finding these clues requires painstaking work by highly trained people and even then it's a tough job.

Intense heat does strange things to identifying marks: silver fillings expel free mercury which contaminates gold inlays making them look like silver; plastic and porcelain fillings discolor and sometimes disintegrate, making it difficult to tell if cavities were filled before.

But much valuable information can be gotten: Are they permanent or baby teeth, in upper or lower jaw, right or left; what is the approximate age of the person? Even sex and race can sometimes be determined. X-rays of teeth and jaws can be compared with previous films to make identification more positive.

Dentures are usually totally destroyed by intense heat but they can be excellent identification markers in other types of disasters. The armed services recognized this years ago and dentures processed in Army dental laboratories have name, rank and serial number baked into the base material of dentures.

This idea should be universally exploited. It's simple to do. Place name and address typed on thin paper into the pink plastic material of dentures and cover it with clear plastic so that it can be seen but won't wear off.

Only minor importance is given to the special science of forensic dentistry in the United States but in some parts of the world such as Scandinavia, it's part of dental education curriculum and is studied as a science. Dentists are required to make detailed records of patients' teeth and these include not only newly placed fillings, but existing fillings, missing teeth, jaw anomalies, etc. In Norway, disaster teams include an expert in forensic dentistry.

It's a gruesome business, but the solution of a number of problems arising out of a person's death is often dependent on this dental science.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Interstitial Cystitis Difficult To Cure

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—A urologist says I have interstitial cystitis. What is the cause? What is the best treatment?

A—Interstitial cystitis is a chronic inflammation of the deep layers of the bladder with small ulcers. It is more common in women than in men. It is often associated with diverticulitis (infected outpouchings) of the colon. It may be caused by a variety of germs, but the usually harmless colon bacillus is a frequent offender.

The disease is easy to treat but hard to cure. Antibiotics and urinary antiseptics offer the best chance for a cure. One report suggests that in some women emotional stress may bring on an attack and when such is the case an injection of ergotamine taken as soon as the attack starts will give prompt relief.

Q—My daughter 6, urinates too often. Sometimes she goes three times in 15 minutes. I had her urine checked but the doctor didn't find anything wrong. What could cause this?

A—Abnormal frequency of urination is seen in diabetes (but sugar would be found in the urine), kidney diseases (but albumin would be found) or bladder infections (but pus would be found). In your daughter, the cause could be a concentrated urine with a high acidity, decreased bladder capacity (in which case the amount of urine passed would be small), or she may have diabetes insipidus (in which case the amount passed would be large). If the condition persists, another search should be made for the cause.

We the Women

Putterer Never Finishes

By Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One reason why "woman's work is never done" is because an awful lot of women are disorganized putterers.

Instead of tackling their work early in the morning and sticking with each job until it is done, a lot of housewives take up half the morning getting themselves started. They sip cup after cup of coffee, call all of their friends for long gossiping chats, start one job and then switch to another before it is finished.

They jump at any excuse to get out of the house — from hopping into the car to make a quick shopping trip, to running over to visit with a neighbor, to attending a morning meeting. (Since no one respects a housewife's working hours there are always morning meetings a woman can attend if she wants to get away from her work for awhile.)

Yet all the while that the puttering housewife is stalling instead of getting on with her chores — she is nagged by the thought of all that she needs to get done.

So she doesn't really enjoy the breaks she keeps taking before she has earned them.

The housewives who really enjoy their leisure moments and hours are those who have enough self-discipline to get on the job early in the morning and keep at it until things are in order and they can take some time for themselves with an easy mind and a clear conscience.

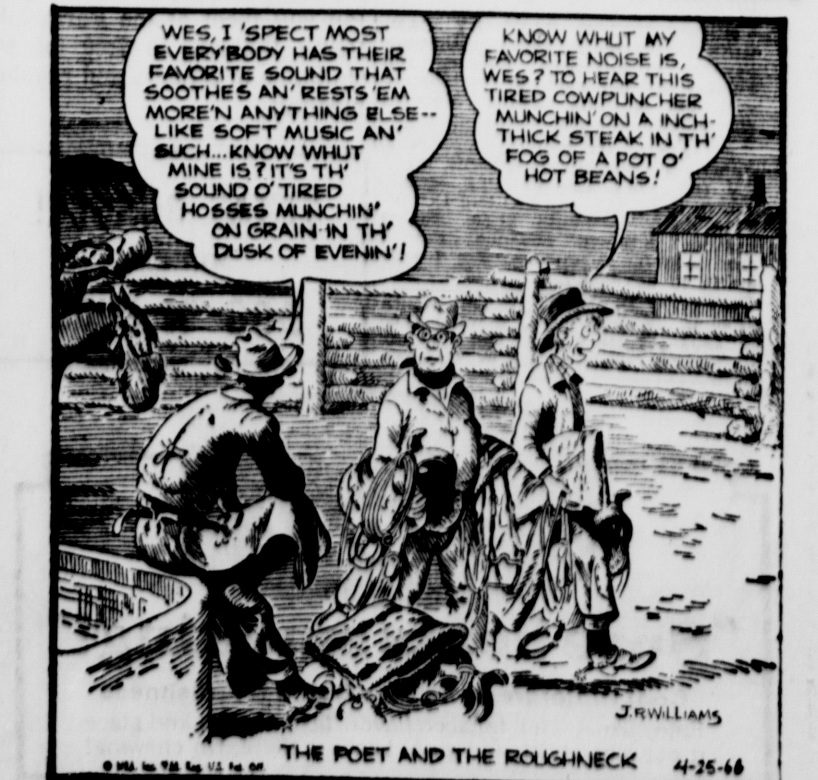

Because they haven't fretted away the best working hours in the day, they have some well-earned time for themselves each day which they are mentally free to enjoy.

In the modern home with modern conveniences housework is not a 12-hour job, seven days a week—unless a woman is inclined to putter and put off instead of tackling her work in a businesslike manner.

Today if a full-time housewife's work is never done, chances are she is a putterer.

'Fiddlers' Big Success For Prince

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Harold Prince paced the floor of his Beverly Hills Hotel bungalow and sputed ideas, as a hard-driving, highly successful Broadway producer should.

Prince was here to launch the road company of his "Fiddler on the Roof," which began a sold-out seven weeks at the Music Center after a week in San Diego.

We played in San Diego to audiences of gentiles, and they loved it," he remarked. The musical concerns village life of Russian Jews. "Too bad we can only play seven weeks here. It could go for seven months. "The Shuberts swear that 'Fiddler' can go at least seven years in New York. Imagine! The show has all the aspects of a classic, and that's something new for me. Even with 'West Side Story' we didn't sell out for the first few weeks, and there was a question of whether it would go at all.

"They're after me now to put together another 'Fiddler' company to take care of the cities that this one can't make. I'm resisting. It's not an easy show to put together. But I'll probably give in.

"They said it was Zero Mostel's show and anybody would be crazy to follow him. But Luther Adler did, and he succeeded. Now Herschel Bernardi is playing it in New York, and he's fine. It's not any one star's show. It's a classic."

Prince, who produced "Damn Yankees," "Pajama Game" and "Fiorello" among others, retains his boyish enthusiasm for the theater. That seems to be what it takes, since you can't succeed in the Broadway rat-race without really trying.

The trade knows that Prince tried hard with "It's a Bird... It's a Plane... It's Superman," which opened recently to what is generally called mixed reviews. Despite the yawns of some critics, Prince says the show is a solid hit.

Other Prince Ideas: A musical called "Cabaret" for next season, based on Christopher Isherwood's "I am a Camera" stories of 1930 Berlin.

A move, "The Cook," all about eating, which Prince himself would direct.

Notes From Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene—

A reunion of Max Von Sydow and Ingmar Bergman will take place this summer. The film: "Day of the Wolf."

Von Sydow reported the engagement on a brief trip here to dub his lines in "Hawaii" and attend the Academy Awards. The new film will be his eighth for the famed Swedish director, their first together since 1962.

"It is a most unusual script, and Bergman himself wrote it," reported Von Sydow. "I can't describe it, except to say that I play a painter who goes mad."

The actor will start the film in Stockholm next month, then report to London for the "The Quiller Memorandum," in which he plays a Nazi. He will then return to finish with Bergman.

The two Oscar-contending Julies — Christie and Andrews — are reported to be the best of friends, but they really aren't that close.

"I actually know Tony better," exclaimed Miss Christie on her visit here. She referred to Tony Walton, Miss Andrews' husband. "Julie was kind enough to invite me to her house for Christmas when I was there last year, and we became friendly."

Miss Christie said she wouldn't object to working in Hollywood, but there's no chance for at least two years. She is committed to other projects, including a film with Richard Lester to be filmed in San Francisco.

Debbie Reynolds has agreed to make "Divorce, American Style," even though the Columbia picture can't afford her usual price.

"It's a good script, and I have an old commitment with Columbia, anyway," she commented. "I don't like to make pictures in summer because of the children, but they'll be in summer school this year."

She also talked herself into it because of the cast, which includes Dick Van Dyke, Jason Robards and Van Johnson.

Kansas City Trip Made By Cadettes

Cadette Troops No. 295 and 396, Wesley Methodist Church, took a one day bus trip to Kansas City, April 11. Cadette troop No. 295 planned the trip for both troops. Cadette troop No. 80 of Kansas City was the hostess of the two Sedalia troops. An appointment with former President Truman had been made but it was cancelled by Mr. Truman's secretary on the Friday before the trip, as Mr. Truman is not seeing large groups now.

Sixty Scouts and nine adults made up the group touring together. The Truman Memorial Library was the first tour of the day. A Library guide, Mrs. Smith explained the many exhibits. Mrs. Harold Lane, leader of Troop 295, presented to the Library a copy of the Columbian (Missouri) newspaper extra that was published Aug. 14, 1945 which announced the surrender of Japan. The copy had already been accepted by letter to be added to their collection.

The troops then drove past the Truman home on their way to Fort Osage, a reconstructed wooden fort. The factory (trading post) was a three story building with a basement. The blockhouses, soldier's barracks, officer's quarters and part of the stockade wall have been reconstructed. The soldier's barracks had dirt floors which had water standing in some places because of the rain. Each room also had a small fireplace. It would be a very dismal place to live. A soldier's life in those days must have been rugged.

The Kansas City Museum was the next stop on the itinerary. The Hall of Costumes is the second largest in the United States, the largest being in New York City. A large collection of rocks and minerals including fluorescent and phosphorescent ones, was of great interest to many of the Scouts. In the Hall of Man is a collection of stuffed animals in simulated natural surroundings. Many Indian artifacts, a replica of an igloo, an Indian tepee, one room of the three room log cabin of Henry Boone, relative of Daniel Boone; a blacksmith shop and general store were among the exhibits.

Cadette Troop No. 80, College Heights Methodist Church, Kansas City, then took the Sedalia troops to their meeting place, the church. The girls sang songs they all knew and then taught each other songs that the others didn't know. The troop mothers of Troop 80 cooked supper for the troops. After supper the Sedalia troops headed for home. Many new friends had been made and several of the girls are going to be pen pals.

Those attending from Sedalia were Troop 295: Janice Baker, Kathy Benner, Martha Buchholz, Joyce Drager, Teresa Dowdy, Susan Eisenstein, Candy Estes, Sheryl Ferguson, Lisa Flores, Deborah Hopkins, Brenda Horrtor, Debra King, Beverly Lane, Elizabeth Lively, Karen Miley, Debbie Montgomery, Pam Myers, Ann Norris, Joyce Reid, Katy Reyburn, Barbi Schrader, Mary Jane Siragusa, Clydia Smith, Sarah Spence, Mary Talbot and Lucy Tompkin; Mrs. Harold Lane, Mrs. Dale Miley, Mrs. Richard Spence and Mrs. Orrin Smith.

Troop 396: Kay Beth Anderson, Linda Anderson, Beverly Baker, Libbie Cain, Marti Corson, Charlotte Curry, Diane Ehrling, Gwen Eisenstein, Kenda Felkner, Annetta Grainger, Mary Ellen Gross, Susan Hopkins, Joyce Kettner, Teresa Lovan, Jan Norris, Jackie Reid, Sherry Sanders, Daryl Sauers, girls made bandana blouses, others made sit-upons or miniature flower pots. Leaders are Mrs. Morris Brown, Mrs. Lee Deason, Mrs. James Labahn and Mrs. Rick Fullerton.

Bichsel's Jewelry Shop was visited by Cadette Troop No. 295 as a requirement on the Hostess badge. Mrs. Heiss showed the troop what china, crystal and silver and table linens are suitable for formal and informal occasions. The troop was then told they could look at the displays for further information. Then the troop went to the Western Union office to learn about how to send a telegram. Leaders were Mrs. Dale Miley and Mrs. Richard Spence.

Survival School Is Realistic

HINESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — An officer stood in a prison compound and surveyed the thatched huts about him. He was a veteran of Viet Nam. To him, this was very real.

It was meant to be realistic. This is the Combat and Survival School of the Air Force 4th Mobile Communications Group. The Air Force believes that if an airman is captured in time of war, he ought to know how to escape.

And if he escapes, he should have every chance of surviving the rigors of the jungles of Viet Nam.

Lessons of escape and survival begin in the classrooms at Hunter Air Force Base at Savannah and shift to classrooms at Ft. Stewart. But the real tests come in the prison compound and the surrounding swamps and piney woods of coastal Georgia.

The classroom instructors become prison guards. The students become prisoners of war. Frequently, an instructor purposely will make a miscount of prisoners assigned to a work detail. This is a key situation for a prisoner who wants to escape. If he doesn't take advantage of it, he gets a mark against him.

Another instructor acting as a sentinel will lower his guard deliberately, giving a prisoner the opportunity to overpower him and escape. If the prisoner doesn't seize the opportunity, he gets a mark against him.

The course lasts 19 days. More than 600 men have passed through the camp since March 1965.

The training is mandatory for members of the communication group, because they may be called on to establish communication units for ground forces in Viet Nam.

Debbie West and Judy Wingate; Mrs. Glen Cromley and Mrs. Cline Cain. Leader of the Kansas City troop is Mrs. Dortha Mae Olsen.

Four Big Matches Set For Tonight On Wrestling Card

Four big matches, plus an eight-heavyweight battle royal will be on the program tonight when the area's hardest ring professionals collide with one another in the Convention Hall ring. Starting time is 8:15.

The main event will be a battle between Sonny Myers, top Missouri heavyweight, and the rugged Viking, hulking 240-pounder who has been the scourge of Missouri-Kansas rings the last few months. The veteran Missouri pro will try to head off a bid by the Viking for area supremacy and is prepared for an all-out showdown. "He's been getting by on luck," Myers stated. "That won't be the case when I step into the ring tonight. He'll have to stay and fight. I'll see to that."

Another match of high interest is the pairing between the powerful Stomper, a strapping 265-pounder, and Bob Brown. The Canadian import has proved a spoiler in Midlands rings this season, but the Stomper figures he has the power and skill necessary to take Brown down a notch or two in the area standings.

Scientific-styled action is expected when speedsters Ron Reed and Jerry Kozak come together. Both are fast and agile and are well versed in all phases of the game. Kozak has a wide variety of holds, but will have to stay out of the way of Reed's specialty—the spinning toe-hold—if he hopes to win.

Opening the card will be a clash between Lee Henning and Kenny Mack.

The bonus event—the battle royal—will involve all eight heavyweights. Each contestant is to post $50 as an entry fee, with the eventual winner scheduled to collect it all.

Elimination will be by means of one wrestler throwing another over the top rope and onto the arena floor. The last heavyweight remaining in the ring will be declared the winner.

Preparations Underway For Camporee

Final preparations are underway for the annual Twin Forks Boy Scout District Camporee, according to Chairman Claude Lambirth. The event will be held April 29-30 and May 1 on the Richard Parkhurst farm, five miles west of Sedalia on 16th Street Road. The theme for this year's camporee will be the "Rugged Trail."

Check-in time will be at 4 p.m. Friday.

Saturday events will include demonstrations in primitive camping and axemanship. Saturday afternoon will be spent in contests in compass, ropework, flint and steel, wildlife, tree identification and mapmaking.

Saturday evening there will be a campfire open to the public under the direction of Rodney Ellis, of Explorer Post 57, Sedalia. Entertainment will be the troops attending the camporee.

P. A. Sillers will be in charge of campsite inspections and Mildred Secora will head food supply. Various program and physical arrangements are being handled by Explorer Posts 57, 59, 65 and 66. Safety and sanitary facilities are under the direction of the district health and safety committee, Dr. Donald Ellis.

The camporee will officially end Sunday morning after religious services.

Boy Scout Troops are expected from Slater, Miami, Malta Bend, Marshall, Sweet Springs and Nelson in Saline County; Houstonia, LaMonte, Green Ridge and Sedalia in Pettis County; and Ottaville in Cooper County.

Cardinals Blank LA; A's Go Down

By The Associated Press
The St. Louis Cardinals received strong pitching and timely hitting Monday night to blank the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0.

The Kansas City Athletics also received a strong hurling effort, but almost no hitting, and fell to the Cleveland Indians 2-0. Lefthander Larry Jaster allowed the Dodgers only seven hits, and handed the losers their third straight shutout defeat.

Curt Flood doubled home a run in the sixth inning, and later scored himself for both of St. Louis' runs.

In Cleveland, the A's managed only a bloop single by Jose Tartabull as lefthander Sam McDowell kept the weak-hitting Athletics well in hand. The Indians wrapped up the victory when Larry Brown hammered a two-out, two-run single in the sixth inning.

Roland Sheldon took the loss, his second without a victory.

Rocky Colavito set an American League record in the game. The Indian rightfielder has now gone 195 consecutive games without an error.

Righthander Chuck Dobson (1-0) will pitch tonight against Cleveland righthander Gary Bell (1-0) as the A's attempt to shake a two-game losing streak.

In Los Angeles, Bob Gibson (2-0) will go after his third straight win. He will be opposed by the Dodgers' Sandy Koufax (2-0).

Ken Johnson's variety of 12 pitches might have fooled Willie Mays, but as far as Jose Pagan is concerned none could have been as evasive as Jim Bunning's bunt pitch.

Bunning so befuddled Pagan that he obliterated a budding Pittsburgh rally and went on to pitch Philadelphia to a 5-0 victory Monday night.

Johnson held Mays hitless in Atlanta's 5-0 triumph over San Francisco, preventing the Giants' star from setting a National League record for career home runs.

"I wasn't thinking about his record," Johnson said afterward. "I was just thinking about winning. I just try not to give him the same pitch twice. I have six pitches, and I throw them from two different angles so that gives me 12 different pitches."

Pagan didn't have much to say after his performance against Bunning. It came in the third inning of a scoreless game and followed no-out singles by pitcher Bob Veale and Matty Alou.

Pagan came to the plate intending to bunt, but he let Bunning's pitch go by, and Veale was trapped off second. The throw from catcher Bob Uecker to shortstop Dick Groat nailed the first out.

Then while Bunning was concentrating on Pagan, Alou stole second. And when Bunning concerned himself with Alou, the pitcher threw the ball into center field, allowing Alou to reach third.

By this time Pagan had two strikes on him, but that didn't stop him from pursuing the bunt. The squeeze play was called for.

Pagan, however, missed the pitch for strike three and the second out and Alou was trapped off third and run down for the third out.

It was almost as if Pagan swung—or didn't swing—into a triple play.

In other NL games, St. Louis handed Los Angeles its third straight 2-0 defeat and Houston edged Cincinnati 2-1.

In the American League Cleveland trimmed Kansas City 2-0, Detroit blanked Minnesota 3-0, Chicago nipped Washington 3-2 and Boston downed New York 8-5.

Johnson limited the Giants to three hits while retiring Mays on a pop up, a strikeout and a liner. Mays, seeking his 512th home run, also walked. Johnson received support from Lee Thomas' three-run homer and Hank Aaron's two-run blast.

Bunning stopped the Pirates on five hits and got the only run he needed when Rich Allen homered in the fourth. The Phillies added four runs in the sixth, two on a single by Cookie Rojas.

Larry Jaster joined the shut-out pitchers, scattering seven hits and extending the Dodgers' scoreless inning string to 30. The Cardinals scored both of their runs in the sixth inning. Curt Flood driving in one with a double and Charlie Smith the other with a sacrifice fly.

Mike Cuellar pitched a five-hitter as Houston handed Cincinnati its seventh defeat in the last eight games. John Bateman doubled across an Astro run in the fifth, and Jim Gentile snapped a 1-1 with a run-scoring single in the sixth.

White Sox Thought They Caught A Spy

Baseball Accused By State

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The State of Wisconsin accused baseball Monday of attempting to use the machinery of an appeal from its antitrust conviction to accomplish what it failed to do during the trial.

By seeking to maintain the status quo pending a State Supreme Court review, said special counsel Willard Stafford, baseball creates a situation where it does not have to play in Milwaukee in 1966 and does not have to expand at this time.

But George B. Christenson of Chicago, an attorney representing baseball, told Circuit Judge Elmer Roller that "one sure way to bring death to the Braves is not to grant a stay" of his order that the National League submit a plan for expansion in 1967 by May 16 or return the Braves from Atlanta to Milwaukee two days later.

"The Braves couldn't comply even if they wanted to," said Christenson. "The minute they try to move, they're dead."

Ray T. McCann, attorney for the Braves, asked Judge Roller for an indefinite stay of his order pending an appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Judge Roller took the plea under advisement after hearing vigorous objection by counsel representing Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette, who brought the successful antitrust action stemming from the Braves' move to Atlanta.

Judge Roller gave no immediate indication as to when he will rule on the motion for a stay. If he rejects the request, the defendants still could ask the Supreme Court to stay the order pending an appeal.

In finding that the National League and its members violated the state's Little Sherman Act, Judge Roller assessed each of the clubs $5,000 plus costs and disbursements.

Marshall Is Calm Before Game

MONTREAL (AP)—One would expect that a young rookie defenseman playing in his first Stanley Cup playoffs would have more than his share of the butterflies before each game.

But that's not the case with Bert Marshall of the Detroit Red Wings.

"I've always played hockey with only one desire—to win," Marshall said Monday.

"I want to win more than ever now, but the importance of the series doesn't make me any more nervous. It may bother some of the others, but not me," he said.

Marshall was a surprise addition to the Red Wings this year. He wasn't mentioned much by Manager-Coach Sid Abel in pre-season drills but made the most of his chance when Abel called him up in November.

Marshall scored three goals and had 11 assists in 51 games for Memphis of the Central Pro League last year.

He had 19 assists in 61 games for the Red Wings this season and scored his first NHL goal against Chicago in the semifinal series.

The Red Wings took Monday off but Montreal skated for an hour in preparation for tonight's second game of the best-of-seven final series.

Hurls One-Hitter

McDowell, Crandall Dazzle K.C. Squad

BY HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It takes two to tango but the way Sam McDowell and Del Crandall were working on Kansas City, it looked more like a torrid twist with the Athletics in the middle.

McDowell, Cleveland's fireballing left-hander, hurled a one-hitter Monday night, beat the Athletics 2-0 and afterwards he gave most of the credit to his journeyman catcher, Crandall.

"I don't want to take anything away from our other catchers," the Indian ace said, "but Del has the experience. He came out to the mound twice and both times he caught things I was doing wrong."

McDowell, now 3-0, has had Crandall as his batterymate in each of his four starts and he likes the idea of pitching to the 36-year-old veteran.

"I shook him off a couple of times in the opener," said McDowell. "It's different now. We're working together in sort of an easy rhythm. Like a dance team."

McDowell was waiting along on a no-hitter for five innings against Kansas City before Jose Tartabull's looping single leading off the sixth broke the spell.

The hit was the only one the A's managed as McDowell struck out eight. Larry Brown drove in both Indian runs with a two-out, bases-loaded single in the sixth inning.

Elsewhere in the American League, Denny McLain hurled a four-hitter as Detroit blanked Minnesota 3-0. Chicago shaded Washington 3-2 despite a titanic home run by Frank Howard, and Boston handed New York its seventh straight loss 8-5.

In the National League, Houston edged Cincinnati 7-1. Atlanta blanked San Francisco 5-0. Philadelphia shut out Pittsburgh 5-0 and St. Louis extended Los Angeles' runless string to three games with a 2-0 victory.

McLain got home run support from Norm Cash and Al Kaline to beat the Twins for his third victory of the season. Cash walked a bases-empty homer in the fourth and McLain protected the slim lead until Kaline's two-run shot in the eighth gave him some breathing space.

Tom McGraw's ninth inning sacrifice fly beat the Senators for Chicago but Howard's homer stole the show. It was still rising when it zoomed into the mezzanine seats in deepest center field, 480 feet from home plate. It was believed to be the longest homer in the five-year history of D.C. Stadium.

Howard pooh-poohed the excitement over his shot. "I've hit 'em further," he said. "Would you believe it?"

Teammate Don Lock didn't. He was convinced it was Howard's longest shot.

McCraw's sacrifice fly brought Floyd Robinson home with the winning run after Robinson had walked and moved to third on Pete Ward's single. Ward's hit came after Washington catcher Doug Camilli dropped his foul pop for an error.

Carl Yastrzemski ripped four hits for Boston which handed New York its 10th loss in 11 starts. Ray Barker, Bobby Richardson and rookie Roy White all homered for the last place Yankees.

To Keep Another Title

New Champ Plans Fight In Court

NEW YORK (AP)—Emile Griffith, the freshly crowned middleweight champion, plans to go to court today in an effort to keep the welterweight crown, too, after his close, controversial, upset conquest of aging Dick Tiger.

The 28-year-old king of the 147-pound welterweight division was a 2-1 underdog when he dethroned the 36-year-old Tiger as ruler of the 160-pound middleweight class on a unanimous 15-round decision Monday night in Madison Square Garden. The odds are even bigger against Griffith's chances of being permitted to hold both crowns.

There is a strong possibility that Griffith will give Tiger a return shot at the middleweight crown at the Garden on June 13. If that doesn't come off, then Griffith might take on either Joey Archer of New York or Italy's Nino Benvenuti, the undefeated junior middleweight champion, in a middleweight title defense.

"Tiger can have the return bout, if he wants it," said the unmarked victor. "He was a good sport to give me the chance. I'm a good sport, too."

"I'd like the return," said the dejected Nigerian, who was knocked down for the first time in his 14-year career. "I thought I deserved the decision. It takes two to make a fight. I had to make the fight."

Holding to his pre-fight plans to keep on the move and tire his older foe, Griffith came on strong from the eighth round on. Referee Art Mercante had it 9-5-1 in rounds for Griffith. Judge Frank Forbes had it 7-6-2 while Judge Tony Castellano had it even in rounds, 7-7-1, but Griffith ahead on points 8-7.

It was the second time Tiger has lost the middleweight title. He dropped it to Joey Giardello in 1963 and regained it from Giardello last Oct. 21 in the Garden.

Griffith, the third welterweight champion to capture the middleweight crown, automatically vacates the lighter division title under the rules of the New York State Athletic Commission, the World Boxing Association and most other boxing bodies of the world.

"We're not giving up the welterweight title," said Howard Albert, Griffith's manager. "We're going to the State Supreme Court Tuesday to seek an injunction to prevent the commission from taking away the title."

Griffith Takes 2nd World Title

NEW YORK (AP)—An explosive right-hand punch that traveled scant inches carried Emile Griffith to his second world boxing championship.

But to the flashy Virgin Islander with the steely muscles and quick moves, the blow might as well have been an accident.

"I never tried to knock him out—never, at any point. Not even when I had him down. The thought never crossed my mind."

But the short right that floored Dick Tiger in the ninth round of Tuesday night's 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden meant the difference. It enabled Griffith to take the middleweight title away from the 37-year-old Nigerian in a tight decision.

The new middleweight champ was a bit on the defensive about the defense-oriented fight he made against Tiger. He backedpedaled considerably and was not his usual aggressive self.

"I just kept moving," he yelled, straining to make his voice heard above the din in his packed, steam-hot dressing room. "I'm a boxer... I just wanted to keep moving. I opened up when I had to."

Tiger was angry—close to bitter. But the only challenge he made to the outcome was an enigmatic: "I hope the winner of this fight got the decision."

He questioned Griffith's caution, saying, "It takes two fighters to make a fight," and "I thought he would come to me, but he ran away."

Tryouts And Practice For Girls' Softball

Tryouts and practice sessions for those girls interested in the Khourey's Girl's Softball League began Monday evening and will continue through Friday evening. Tryouts will start tonight at 7 p. m. for all girls between the ages of seven and 18 on the softball diamond at Centennial Park.

Then, starting on Wednesday night, assignment to teams and auction of players will be conducted by Archie Hughes, player agent.

Wednesday night managers will work on selections for the Sophomores and Debutantes; on Thursday night it will be for the Chic Division and on Friday night the Petite Division.

All managers are requested to be at the office of Superintendent of Parks F. R. Black on the designated nights of their division.

Decision Time Is At Hand

ROME (AP) — The time of decision on the 1972 Olympic sites arrived today as delegates of the last of the contending cities were summoned to plead their cases before the crucial awarding vote.

Delegates of Banff, Canada; Salt Lake City, Utah; Sapporo, Japan and Lahti, Finland, were called before the 62 members of the International Olympic Committee to expound the merits of their cities for the Winter Games.

Detroit, Madrid, Montreal and Munich made their summer site pitches Monday.

The final 45-minute presentations came amid a thickening cloud of tension, speculation and nerves — and growing reports Sapporo's chances for winning the winter site were gaining.

Members of the Winter Sports International Ski Federations figured that the contest would boil down to Banff and Sapporo.

The vote was expected in the late afternoon after the winter city presentations.

Dallas Open May Become 54-Hole Special Tourney

DALLAS (AP) — The scheduled 72-hole Dallas Open Golf Tournament might become a 54-hole event if persistent rain keeps falling today.

The $85,000, four-day tournament was to end Sunday but two rounds already have been rained out. All-day showers Monday washed out the final 18 holes after rain Saturday delayed playing the third round until Sunday.

Today is the last chance to complete the Dallas Open because the Professional Golfers Association tour is due in San Antonio Wednesday for pro-amateur events as part of this week's Texas Open.

John Lotz and Harold Henning might like to see another day of rain. They are tied for the lead after 54 holes with 205 each. But the other 69 golfers would like to get another chance to improve their positions.

Doug Sanders and Gay Brewer, the pretournament favorites, and Ken Still are two strokes back of the leaders.

Chicken And Crow Repast For Red Auerbach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Last Sunday the Boston Celtics' prime concern was who would light the fire under Coach Red Auerbach's victory cigar after they shellacked the Los Angeles Lakers and sewed up the National Basketball Association championship.

But instead of the victory cigar, Auerbach gorged himself on a repast of unattended chicken, with a side order of crow.

Tonight Auerbach's prime concern is how to light the fire under the Celtics, so they can shellack the Lakers and still sew up the National Basketball Association championship.

It would be their eighth in a row — and a nice going-away present for the about-to-retire Auerbach. And the Celtics, obsessed with a passion for tidy endings, want it most earnestly.

But so do the Lakers, who are tailing the Celts 3-2 in the best-of-seven playoff series, and who have been planning this big victory blast of their own.

The Lakers' hopes soared after Elgin Baylor led them to an exciting 121-117 victory Sunday in Boston Garden.

Drawings On Tour In Viet Nam

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The Christmas gift of Mary K. Burns' art class to American fighting men in Viet Nam has become a warmly appreciated cruising art show in the South China Sea.

The 24 crayon drawings by Miss Burns' second grade pupils at Oak Ridge School are on display in the library of the attack carrier USS Hancock.

In a letter, Lt. Cmdr. David W. Plank, the carrier's chaplain, reported how the work of the Oak Ridge youngsters finally, on April 6, reached the ship which is engaged in air strikes against the Viet Cong.

"Five days ago something wonderful happened.

"A battered and torn pink paper-wrapped cylindrical package arrived in my office.

"It was lying on the floor, in fact, when I discovered it," Plank wrote to Robert W. Luther, Oak Ridge principal.

"The package was addressed to the U.S. Navy, Viet Nam.

"For 70 days, mind you, these 24 grease-crayon drawings and 19 letters from the boys and girls... had been bounced around Viet Nam—and no one wanted them.

"All they wanted was a home. They have one now, on the walls of our ships' library."

Chaplain Plank invited the Hancock's men to become art critics. They voted as judges in a contest awarding prizes to the pupils whose crayon pictures were picked as the best.

"I am impressed with the symbolism involved in the pictures," Plank said. "It is different from hearing of the action of the Vietnam Day Committee demonstrations in Berkeley and draft card burning."

Miss Burns said a note in the package explained the pictures were of things at home which her 8-year-old pupils felt would interest the soldiers and sailors in Viet Nam.

Miss Burns, 30, who came from Boston to Sacramento last fall, said a Hancock sailor, Bill Steyer, wrote asking for more drawings.

Twenty-nine more crayon drawings by the Oak Ridge School's second grade were mailed to the Hancock last week.

"We'll send out another batch before summer vacation," Miss Burns said.

18 Youths Arrested After Disturbance

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Police took 18 youths into custody Monday night after a series of disturbances at East High School during the Santa Fe Relays.

The track event in which 18 high schools participated attracted an estimated 2,000 spectators. They were not involved, or disturbed.

The disturbances took place behind the stadium and on the ramps. They boys were picked up after they threw stones at a patrol car, police said.

Valenti Joins Movie Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hollywood has turned again to the national political scene for a new czar of the movie industry — this time to President Johnson's aide and admirer, Jack J. Valenti.

The 44-year-old son of Italian immigrants quit his $30,000-a-year job as Johnson's special assistant Monday to become president and chief executive officer of the Motion Picture Producers Association of America.

His new salary, though undisclosed, will be much higher.

Although he calls himself a "movie buff," Valenti hasn't had much time for movies since Johnson transplanted him from Texas to the nation's capital on the day John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

Since then Valenti has been the President's closest personal friend inside the official White House family. He has been very busy with scores of chores ranging from supervision of speechwriters to improving the humor of foreign ambassadors.

The announcement that Valenti was leaving provoked an air of sadness at the White House.

Valenti, usually ebullient, was strangely subdued when he told newsmen of his plans.

"It's not easy to go," he said. "I'm going to miss being at the President's side. It's more than a job."

One White House aide spoke for others in remarking privately that Valenti, with his effervescent personality, would leave a large void.

Johnson apparently felt the same way. Sadly, from the President's viewpoint, the old guard is all but gone. Of the assistants who came to the White House with him in 1962, only press secretary Bill D. Moyers remains on the payroll.

The moguls of moviedom, in choosing Valenti to head their trade association, picked a man who combines political and promotional skills with much personal charm and sophistication.

Like his two predecessors at the movie association, native-Texas Valenti made his name in Washington. The other two were one-time Republican National Chairman and Postmaster General Will Hays and Eric Johnston, who parlayed a term as president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States into a career as an internationalist foreign policy adviser to presidents of the United States.

Valenti, a Houston advertising man before he went to the White House, used to advertise Texas politicians. In 1960 he directed the ad campaign for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in that state.

He has the nerve of a born promoter. Just last summer he startled many with his enthusiasm when he said in a public speech that he sleeps better at night knowing Lyndon Johnson is his president. He attributed to Johnson a host of the highest qualities.

Wheat, Feed Grain Losses Threaten U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A continued decrease in wheat and feed grain stocks would threaten the nation's security, Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., said today.

"In most cases our surpluses are gone," Pearson said. "In fact, in several vital commodity areas our reserve stocks have fallen below the minimum level generally considered safe and adequate for national security reasons."

Pearson said since the end of January the Commodity Credit Corp. inventory of wheat has been reduced from 530-288,000 bushels to 343,978,000 bushels — the lowest April 1 reserve level since 1953.

He contended that Agriculture Department estimates of uncommitted wheat were overly optimistic and predicted that even with the second largest crop in history expected this year disappearance of wheat will exceed production.

Pearson said corn has the lowest April 1 inventory since 1949 and also noted that CCC stocks of beans, rice, soybeans, dried milk and cheese "are virtually non-existent or totally exhausted."

3,000 Tons Of Parts To Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 3,000 tons of spare parts and other vital military cargo has been flown to South Viet Nam so far under the Pentagon's "Red Ball Express" system for meeting urgent needs with maximum speed.

Military transportation officials, disclosing this today, said the system has proved to be a "godsend" since it was put into effect late last year on orders from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Little public attention has been given to the system, which draws its name from the fabled emergency supply shuttle used as U.S. armies raced across France in World War II.

Then, the Red Ball Express was a stream of trucks which raced from supply ports to the advancing columns.

The Viet Nam version of the Red Ball Express is an airlift. McNamara ordered the system into being late last November when he was in Viet Nam and the supply bottleneck was at its worst. The first plane carrying "Red Ball" cargo arrived in Viet Nam Dec. 8.

Under the system, space for priority cargo is set aside on all transport flights leaving Travis Air Force Base in California for Viet Nam.

This space is at the specific disposal of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, who messages his urgent requests.

Officials estimated that between 10 and 15 per cent of all of the cargo which has been flown to Viet Nam from the West Coast has been of the Red Ball variety.

It is estimated that requests for aircraft, trucks, tanks or other equipment parts can be filled in as little as 72 hours. Average delivery time for the expedited cargo is about five days and the maximum about 11.

At the receiving end, at the Tan Son Nhut airfield near Saigon, military authorities are alerted in advance to expect

Electric Toothbrush Causes Call For Help
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sirens screaming, police officers responded to a call that a rattlesnake was loose in a woman's overnight bag.
The woman frantically explained that she had just returned from a trip to Mexico and was opening her bag when she heard the rattle. She slammed the bag shut and tossed it out the window onto the sidewalk.
Patrolmen—armed with brooms—opened the bag, scattered its contents on the sidewalk and leaped back when they heard the distinct buzz.
They probed at the clothes. The buzz grew louder. Then something bright rolled out. The officers called to the woman at the window.
"Lady, you don't have any rattlesnake. What you've got is your electric toothbrush turned on."

Take a Work Break

Neurotic Executives Come Under Close Observation

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Work addicts are urged to take a work break instead of just relying on more coffee.

The neurotic ways of the business executive who thinks the company can't function without him are coming under closer inspection by both physicians and corporate management.

The doctors worry about the social and personal problems that can build up from executive tensions. These sometimes lead to mental or physical breakdowns.

Management is worrying about what tension in the executive suite may be doing to employ morale. Also there is the pressing problem of how growing tension may affect the making of crucial dollar and cents decisions.

Like drug, alcohol and gambling addicts, the one who is being hooked by his work and by his preoccupation with it is usually the last to recognize his trouble or to admit his addiction. Instead, he develops all kinds of physical symptoms that physicians find hard to trace to physical causes.

"Excessive behavior of practically any kind begets addiction," says Dr. Nelson Bradley of the Parkside Clinic, Des Plaines, Ill. "For the drinker, anything above the one or two drinks necessary to gain the relaxation he legitimately may seek is excessive behavior. In the case of the executive and his workload, I believe that anything over a 40-hour work week is excessive behavior, particularly in this day of good corporate organization and extremely competent subordinates."

The work addict will plead a rush of demands, Dr. Bradley says, when "the events leading to the rush have actually been instigated by the man himself."

Dr. William C. Menninger, founder of the Menninger Clinic of Industrial Mental Health, urges that in addition to regular physical examinations for key men, companies also provide regular emotional checkups for their executives.

"It is rare for anyone to see his physician because of tension, but physicians' offices are filled with patients who complain of symptoms resulting from tensions," notes Dr. Theodore G. Klumpp, president of Winthrop Laboratories, a division of Sterling Drug.

He holds that a certain amount of stress, different for each person, is a powerful spur to creativity or productivity. But the extremes of stress, from either intensity or duration, are harmful. Tensions are revealed in nervousness or sleeplessness, diarrhea, spastic colitis, loss of weight or gaining of too much weight too fast.

If you're becoming a work addict, he suggests a work break. And for most executives the best work break is a regular program of physical exercise.

Pushups won't do, Dr. Klumpp contends. Nor will walking, swimming, golf, tennis or bicycling — if done only on Sunday. The work break has to be taken every day. And above all beware of that common advice to "take it easy."

Don't worry about physical strain, the doctor and drug company executive adds. It's not a "fulfilling, rewarding life to be afraid to live for fear of dying."

Profitable 'Curtain' Smuggling

VIENNA, (AP) — Smuggling across the Iron Curtain has become a profitable business — boosted by the scarcity of consumer goods in Communist Eastern Europe and the appeal of Western products.

The great tourist stream that treks eastward each summer, on holiday or weekend, gives smugglers a chance of trying to slip across the Iron Curtain under the noses of customs officials.

Nearly four million cars entered Yugoslavia last year and Czechoslovakia border checkpoints averaged up to 3,500 border-crossings a day.

A typical case of modern smuggling was told by a Czechoslovak customs official, Frantisek Minarik of the Mikulov checkpoint.

"One day last August I had to take care of a long line of cars with weekend tourists and Austrians visiting their relatives in Czechoslovakia," he said.

"I checked a Viennese driver in an American-made car who was making his 28th trip to Czechoslovakia. I took a closer look at his car and noticed that the space behind the rear seat was rather large."

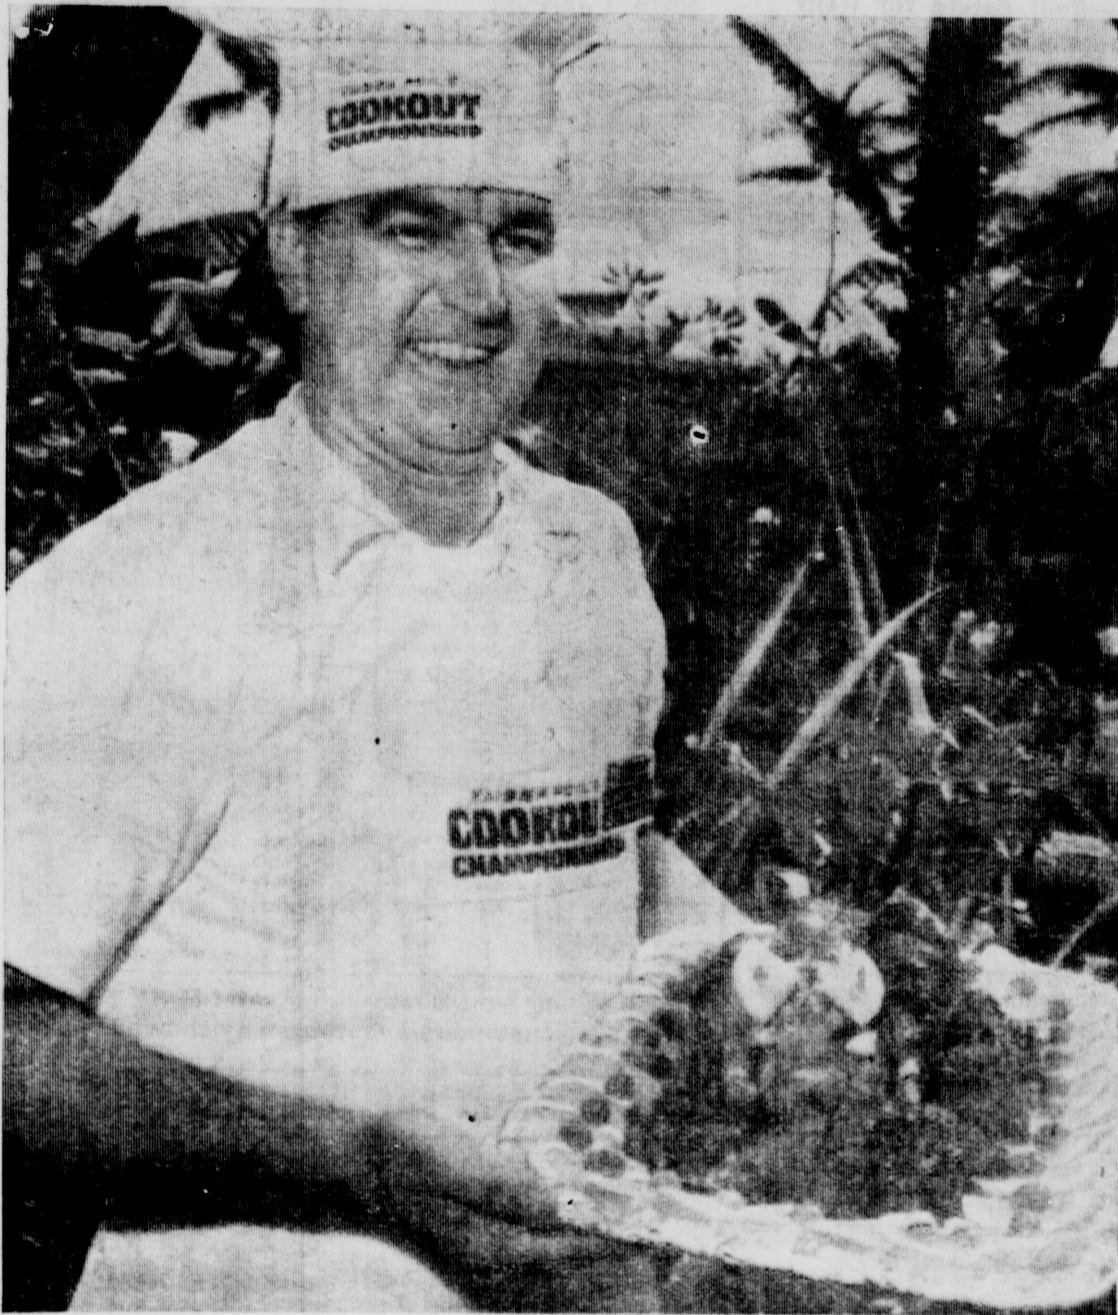

"I called a mechanic who unscrewed the wall behind the rear seat and pulled out 190 nylon coats that had been neatly stacked in his secret compartment."

Another smuggler passed the Mikulov checkpoint 47 times in nine months, shuttling back and forth with foodstuffs, watches, raincoats, transistor radios and leather jackets for Czechoslovakia and Czechoslovak cameras and antiques for Austria.

He had organized 15 young people into a group. Each had a specific task — purchasing, transport, storage and distribution.

A Vienna chauffeur stuffed the seats of his car with money, fixed a dozen radios under the dashboard; filled the space around the engine with watches and built a special compartment under the floor for lighters and ballpoint pens.

Smuggling into Hungary does not always cross the Iron Curtain. A Western group was arrested for smuggling goods in

HONOLULU, HAWAII—This is the "Piquant Polynesian Stuffed Chicken" that was prepared by Donald Theonnes, 36, Cleveland Aero-space mechanic, in winning America's Cook-out Championship "for men only." Theonnes, who is employed by the National Aeronautics Space Administration, received $10,000 cash award from Kaiser Quilted Foil for his winning recipe. He is married and the father of three children. (UPI)

100-Million Copies Of American Bible

MONTREAL, N.C. (AP) — An official of the American Bible Society says world distribution of the Bible probably will exceed 100-million copies this year.

Dr. Eugene A. Nida, executive secretary of the society's translation division, told an assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., "never before have we had such a demand for the Bible."

from Czechoslovakia. Czechoslovakia produces shoes, textiles, glassware and porcelain at prices considerably lower than those in Hungary.

Smugglers who get caught face prison terms of several years, fines equal to the duties they would have to pay for contraband goods, and confiscation of goods they were caught with and the car they transported them in. If they are foreigners they are expelled from the country after having completed their prison sentence.

179 adv Tuesda High Research Cost

BEVERLY SHORES, Ind. (AP) — American colleges and universities will spend an estimated $2.5 billion in research and development in 1966. Almost 80 per cent will be financed by the federal government.

The estimate was made by Industrial Research magazine in its April issue.

Beeping Brings New Reports Of U.F.O.'s

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Reports spread of strange objects and possible visitors from outer space when residents kept hearing a strange beeping from the woods near a lake situated of Seattle.

Finally, a search party went out. They converged on a tree and found the source — a noisy baby owl.

DODGE DOES IT WITH

5-YEAR OR 50,000-MILE

ENGINE AND DRIVE TRAIN WARRANTY PROTECTION

Chrysler Corporation warrants for 5 years or 50,000 miles or 1500 hours of operation, whichever comes first, against defects in materials and workmanship and will replace or repair at a Chrysler Motors Corporation authorized dealer's place of business gasoline engines (i.e., block, heads, and internal parts), intake manifold, water pump, flywheel, flywheel housing, clutch housing, torque converter, transmission (i.e., case and internal parts, excluding manual clutch), drive shaft, universal joints, driving axle and differential, and drive wheel bearings of its new Dodge conventional low-tonnage trucks (models D100, D200, D300), provided the owner has (1) the engine oil changed and universal joints (except sealed-type) lubricated and the oil-bath-type carburetor air filter cleaned every 3 months or 4000 miles, whichever comes first, (2) the engine oil filter replaced and dry-type carburetor air filter cleaned every second oil change, and dry-type carburetor air filter element replaced every 24,000 miles, (3) the crankcase ventilation system cleaned and serviced every 4000 miles, and (4) the transmission and driving axle lubricants changed every 32,000 miles. The foregoing services must be performed more often when reasonably required due to severe dust or regular "stop and go" operation. Every 6 months the owner must furnish to such a dealer evidence of performance of the required service and request the dealer to certify (1) receipt of such evidence and (2) the vehicle's then current mileage.
